

Head of Procurement

SUMMARY

The Office of Financial Control (OFC) is primarily responsible for the management of financial and budgetary control systems for several NATO entities, primarily the NATO International Staff (IS) Civil Budget. As the custodian of member Nations' funds, the OFC provides reliable and value adding financial and procurement services in support of front-line Divisions, enabling them to achieve their objectives. It works to comply with International Public Sector Accounting Standards (IPSAS) and other best practices, including the management of enterprise risk and internal control. Standards applicable to NATO in the finance and procurement domains are the NATO Financial Regulations, the NATO-IS Financial Rules and Procedures, the IPSAS, the NATO Civilian Personnel Regulations (CPR), the NATO-IS Procurement Manual, and the NATO Code of Conduct.

The OFC is organised around four main services: (1) Finance, Accounting and Control; (2) Procurement; (3) Treasury; and (4) Missions. The Head of Procurement is the IS Procurement Service's sourcing, contracting, and market expert. S/he identifies solutions to business needs, sourcing demands and potential opportunities.

S/he has the responsibility for building high-quality sourcing and procurement performance and capability for more than €70 million in annual spend as part of the IS sourcing and procurement strategy.

The Head of Procurement acts for, or represents, the Financial Controller, when required and has legal authority to enter into commercial agreements on behalf of the Organization within the limits specified in applicable regulations and to issue procurement warrants to procurement officers and buyers.
